I couldn't be more pleased with the way my final year as a youth member played out. 2013 was full of hard work and watching my herd grow. Having the honors of being the Herdsman of the year once was incredible, and winning it for the second time is all the more humbling. I owe a lot of my herd's success to the breeders that have offered their years of expertise, and have advised me along the way.

It's always been of great importance to me to have a competitive herd. Having one rabbit that does well on the tables consistently is nice, but winning with different animals on a regular basis is more satisfying for me. It really validates all of the hard work that I put into my herd, and proves to me that I have a strong show string.

In the coming years, I hope to continue the improvements of my herd. One day, I would like to be one of the breeders that the youth are able to look to for advice and guidance, like my mentors were for me. Moving forward with my herd in open, my goal is to one day have a herd strong enough to win Herdsman again.
